WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

ONSITE PROGRAM

PHILADELPHIA, PA
AUGUST 28-31
Welcome 2019 Conference Participants!

Let me welcome you to four days of exploration and contemplation across dozens of sessions and events, many of which will ask the question that forms the theme of our meeting “What Are We Waiting For?”. We history practitioners every day show our commitment to accuracy, to reliable evidence, and, yes, to trying to tell the truth. In your own approach to the past, you certainly face history’s multiple perspectives, diverse sources, shifting interpretations, and emergent new considerations. And still, at the end of the day, we all attempt to know how things actually happened. We understand that an idea is a fact until it is disproven. Without such a shared understanding of how knowledge is built, things fall apart.

During our time together in Philadelphia, you’re going to be challenged to think about why we wait and what things can no longer wait. Our partner in this conference, the International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, will help lead many of these discussions in its role as the only global network of historic sites, museums, and memory initiatives that connect past struggles to today’s movements for human rights. Our Program Committee Chair Jackie Barton and Host Committee Co-chairs Bill Adair and David Young have led their committees in generating a great conference experience for you this week. We hope you will enjoy the many formats for discussion and meeting people. I can’t do enough of it justice in this space, so I would urge you to have a quick look at the Schedule-at-a-Glance section and to dive into your 2019 Annual Meeting.

Onward!

We are excited and proud to welcome the joint American Association for State and Local History (AASLH) and International Coalition of Sites of Conscience Annual Meeting to Philadelphia to learn, connect, tour, and address this year’s theme, What Are We Waiting For? Depending on the work at hand, this theme serves different purposes. It is a call to action, a challenge to embrace difficult work now. It is also a cautious whisper, a reminder to slow down and get it right. Although different issues warrant different responses, consideration of the question is essential in light of the challenges our field, communities, nation, and planet are facing. We look forward to hearing the conversations this week as we wrestle with these ideas and what they mean to the history field.

You will have many opportunities to see colleagues who both accelerate needed change as well as slow down to achieve greater impact. Philadelphia has long served as host to pathbreaking work in public history. Its buildings were the first documented by the Historic American Buildings Survey, and it is the nation’s first city to be designated as a member of the Organization of World Heritage Cities. It has pushed beyond its famous colonial stories to address change and welcome diverse histories embedded in its neighborhoods and region-wide. We hope you will take the time to explore our city and get to know our cultural institutions.

This week, let’s examine how getting the timing right can make the difference between success and failure, between building relationships or breaking them down. Should we dive in, get better organized before starting, or take time to consider an entirely new direction? What Are We Waiting For?

The International Coalition of Sites of Conscience welcomes our colleagues from across the continent and globe to Philadelphia, PA.

Sites of Conscience are places of memory—a historic site, place-based museum or memorial—that connect past to present, interpret history through place, facilitate dialogue on pressing social issues, share opportunities for public engagement, and promote universal cultures of human rights.

Since its creation in 1999, the International Coalition of Sites of Conscience has united these unique spaces, offering structural and financial support, as well as opportunities to collaborate within and across regions, sharing individual experiences to forge a collective, global movement. With over 275 member sites in 65 countries, we help galvanize communities from the Bronx to Bangladesh in using the past to find solutions to today’s most enduring social, economic and political challenges.

Sites of Conscience members from North America will convene on August 27th for a regional meeting to be held in tandem with this AASLH meeting. This week, we also welcome five international Sites of Conscience Fellows who are joining us from the National Centre for Arts and Culture in The Gambia; the Apartheid Museum in Johannesburg, South Africa; the National Network of Families of the Disappeared and Missing in Nepal; the Memory Center of Monsignor Juan Gerardi in Guatemala City, Guatemala; and the Museum of British Colonialism, in the United Kingdom and Kenya.

As our Sites of Conscience networks grow, we are changing how the world thinks about the past. For us, history is a verb. It requires us to do something: to raise awareness about the plight of marginalized people around the world, to promote policies that prioritize accountability and justice, and to support communities as they transition from being steeped in violence and hatred to embracing dignity, equality, and peace.

Through engaging programs, exhibits and educational projects, Sites of Conscience remind visitors that it is not enough to talk about the slave trade then without talking about the 40 million enslaved people today, or to educate people about the millions who were silenced in Europe decades ago when refugees and their stories are being buried today. As we forge these thematic and dialogic links, we also have become increasingly engaged in transitional justice, working at the local level in Sri Lanka, Syria, South Sudan and elsewhere to ensure that victims of recent conflicts and atrocities can voice and preserve their stories, bringing not only restorative relief, but laying the foundation for a future that respects democracy and the rights of all.

We invite you to join us at the Sites of Conscience reception on Wednesday, August 29th from 5:30 to 6:30 pm in Horizons Rooftop to learn more about our work, to meet our staff, and to connect with member sites, especially our International Fellows. As we celebrate our 20th anniversary this year, we look forward to expanding the Sites of Conscience movement with you all.

Elizabeth Silkes

Thursday morning’s session is a plenary focusing on the topics of history organizations and social justice issues through the lens of incarceration. Sean Kelley, Senior Vice President and Director of Interpretation at Eastern State Penitentiary Historic Site, will moderate a discussion on this important topic with historian Talitha LeFlouria, PhD, and Susan Burton of A New Way of Life Reentry Project.

With grit, resilience, and perseverance, she overcame those challenges and dedicated her life to helping others break the cycle of incarceration through her nonprofit, A New Way of Life Reentry Project. A leader in criminal justice reform, she shares her courageous odyssey in overcoming tragedy, addiction, and incarceration to help others like her find a new way of life. She was named a CNN Hero in 2010 and a Purpose Prize winner in 2012.

Dr. Talitha LeFlouria is the Lisa Smith Discovery Associate Professor in African and African-American Studies at the University of Virginia. She is a scholar of African American history, specializing in mass incarceration, modern slavery, race and medicine, and black women in America. She is the author of Chained in Silence: Black Women and Convict Labor in the New South (UNC Press, 2015). This book received several national awards including the Darlene Clark Hine Award from the Organization of American Historians (2016) and the Ida B. Wells Tribute Award from the Charles H. Wright Museum of African American History (2015). She is the author of a forthcoming book from Beacon Press on black women and mass incarceration.

Susan Burton is an activist based in Los Angeles who works with ex-cons. In her memoir Becoming Ms. Burton: From Prison to Recovery to Leading the Fight for Incarcerated Women, she traces the trajectory of her personal trials with poverty, abuse, drug and alcohol addiction, and loss that led to nearly twenty years of cycling in and out of prison.

Sean Kelley has run all programs and exhibits at Eastern State Penitentiary since 1995, when he was hired as the site’s first full-time employee. He produced the site’s signature audio tour, and has curated more than 100 artist installations at the site. He oversaw development of Prisons Today: Questions in the Age of Mass Incarceration, the winner of AAM’s 2017 Overall Award for Excellence. He visits active prisons and writes critically about museums and social justice.

Dr. Erica Armstrong Dunbar is the Charles and Mary Beard Professor of History at Rutgers University. Dr. Dunbar also serves as Director of the Program in African American History at the Library Company of Philadelphia. She has been the recipient of Ford, Mellon, and SSRC fellowships and is an Organization of American Historians Distinguished Lecturer. Her first book, A Fragile Freedom: African American Women and Emancipation in the Antebellum City was published by Yale University Press in 2008. She is also the author of Never Caught: The Washingtons’ Relentless Pursuit of Their Runaway Slave Ona Judge, the powerful narrative of Ona Judge’s experiences as a runaway slave who risked it all to escape the nation’s capital in Philadelphia and reach freedom. It was honored as a 2017 National Book Award finalist, and also won the 2018 Frederick Douglass Book Prize from the Gilder Lehrman Center. Dr. Armstrong’s writing, teaching, and lecturing focus on the uncomfortable concepts of slavery, racial injustice, and gender inequality. While there is deep pain associated with these topics, she marvels at the incredible triumph of survival and the beautiful history of resistance.

Overall Award for Excellence. He visits active prisons and writes critically about museums and social justice.
DESTINATION: HISTORIC NEW JERSEY

Known as the crossroads of the American Revolution, the Garden State is also home to the nation’s oldest working lighthouse, the first national historical park at Morristown, and Thomas Edison’s laboratory. Our history includes rich agricultural traditions, compelling immigrant stories, and breakthroughs in science and technology. We’re also proud to be the birthplace of baseball, the motion picture, and the world’s first boardwalk. Here in New Jersey, every new day brings a brand-new historic destination—and inspiration. Wednesday, August 28

T1 Innovative Delaware: Hagley Museum and Library and the Nemours Estate, Past and Present
8 am–5:30 pm, Cost: $75
Experience how two Delaware institutions are interpreting the impact of technological and social innovations of everyday life. At Hagley Museum, birthplace of the DuPont Company, see the original gunpowder mills, an operating machine shop, and E.I. du Pont’s home. At Nemours Estate, the estate of Alfred Du Pont, the tour will begin at the renowned du Pont Hospital for children, and conclude next door at the picturesque Nemours Estate and Gardens.

T2 Philadelphia Main Line Estates: From Grand Mansions to Gardens and How They’ve Evolved
8 am–5:30 pm, Cost: $75
Enjoy exclusive access to three spectacular former country estates on the Philadelphia Main Line. The day begins at Stoneleigh: a natural garden with its towering trees, lauded landscape architecture and Tudor revival mansion. The tour will continue to Chanticleer, which has been called the most romantic, imaginative, and exciting public garden in America. Lunch will be served at Chanticleer. The final tour will be Ardrossan, widely regarded as the last great estate on the Main Line.

T3 History of Public Health in Philadelphia
1:30–5:30 pm, Cost: $45
One of the oldest medical societies in the United States, the College of Physicians of Philadelphia was founded in 1787 to “advance the science of medicine and thereby lessen human misery.” The College of Physicians of Philadelphia Section on Public Health and Preventive Medicine will be hosting a walking tour of the history of the Yellow Fever Epidemic of 1793 in the Old City neighborhood of Philadelphia. This tour, led by Dr. Michael Yudell, will describe the response and effects of one of the deadliest outbreaks in American history, with roughly 5,000 deaths. Concluding at the Mütter Museum, a member of museum staff will lead a brief tour of the collection and discuss an upcoming exhibit—opening October 2019—addressing the pandemic that hit Philadelphia 125 years after Yellow Fever.

T4 To Bigotry No Sanction: Walking Tour of Historic Philadelphia’s Religious History
1:30–5:30 pm, Cost: $45
George Washington’s famous 1790 promise to the Jewish community of Newport, RI, that the government of the United States “gives to bigotry no sanction, to persecution no assistance,” forms the basis for both this walking tour of historic Philadelphia and the core exhibition at the National Museum of American Jewish History on Independence Mall. Visitors will take a curator’s tour of the core exhibition at the National Museum of American Jewish History, a 25,000 square-foot exhibition chronicling the 360+ year experience of Jews in America. Shorter stops will take place at the Statue of Religious Liberty immediately outside the museum, as well as Mikveh Israel cemetery, a few blocks away. A number of other sites relating to other religious minorities in Philadelphia during the Revolutionary period will be stops along the way.
Thursday, August 29

T5 Seeking Out Stories at the Museum of the American Revolution and Independence National Historical Park
1:30–5:30 pm, Cost: $45
See how audience-centered experiences are challenging some of the most traditional historic narratives. To start, MoAR educators will model the museum’s flagship field trip program Through Their Eyes, bringing to light diverse historical perspectives on the Revolution that complicate ideas of freedom, liberty, patriotism, and revolution. Participants then will undertake INHP’s “Seeker” challenge, exploring the park to “seek out” its hidden stories and relate them to today.

Friday, August 30

T6 Making the Private Public: Telling Women’s History through Collections
8:30 am–12 pm, Cost: $45
Where are the women and their stories? This tour will visit the Philadelphia Museum of Art and Cedar Grove, one of its historic houses, to explore how the collections of each reveal the history of American women. At the PMA, an interactive tour will focus on uncovering stories of women as artists, subjects, and collectors. At Cedar Grove, historic artifacts will uncover themes of women including healing, social reform, faith, and education.

T7 A Walk to the African American Museum in Philadelphia
8:30 am–12 pm, Cost: $45
Get oriented to the City Center neighborhood on a ten-block walking tour to the African American Museum in Philadelphia. Tour the museum’s core exhibition Audacious Freedom: African Americans in Philadelphia 1776-1876, which recounts contributions made by people of African descent in Philadelphia throughout the century following the Revolutionary War. After the tour, meet Revolutionary War hero “Ned” Hector in an interactive living history presentation. Participants will also see demonstrations of AAMP’s “Traveling Trunk”, and have a chance to view the temporary art exhibition Sonya Clark: Self-Evident.
T8 On the Road to Freedom: Enslavement and the Underground Railroad in Philadelphia

8:30 am–5:30 pm, Cost: $75

Visit sites where enslaved Africans who were determined to be free received assistance from groups like the Free African Society (1787); the Pennsylvania Abolition Society (1775); and abolitionists like William Still, William Whipper, Frances E.W. Harper, Robert Purvis, and more. Stops on the tour include Mother Bethel AME Church (1791), resting on the oldest parcel of land in the United States continuously owned by African Americans; Fair Hill Burial Ground (1703), a Quaker burial ground and resting place for many prominent activists and abolitionists; Lest We Forget Museum (of Slavery); and the Johnson House Historic Site (1768), a home vital to the Underground Railroad. Sponsored by the African American Museum in Philadelphia.

T9 Walking with Washington

8:30 am–5:30 pm, Cost: $75

Get out of the city and visit some of the most iconic battlefields from the Revolutionary War. This tour will visit Valley Forge National Historical Park, Paoli Battlefield Historical Park, and the Battlefield of the Brandywine. Explore this significant era of our nation’s history in the place where it happened. Lunch is included.

T10 Changing Narratives at Historic Sites: Stenton, Cliveden, and Wyck in Historic Germantown

1–5:30 pm, Cost: $45

Come to Historic Germantown and visit 3 of the 18 exceptional historic sites: Wyck—the ancestral home to one of Philadelphia’s families for nine generations, Stenton—the country seat of James Logan, Secretary to William Penn, and Cliveden—the summer home of the Chew Family and site of the Revolutionary War Battle of Germantown. Experience exceptional collections, gardens, and kitchens, and converse with museum staff about approaches to interpretation, education, and preservation that shed light on how these sites remain relevant in their communities and to a range of audiences.
Special Events

These events are not included in the Annual Meeting registration fee and require preregistration. Visit the registration desk for details. Note: Some events may be sold out.

Wednesday, August 28

Out in the Gayborhood: LGBTQ History in Philly
6:30–9:30 pm, Cost: $49
Before Stonewall, there was Philadelphia: The City of Brotherly Love and Sisterly Affection. Activism for the LGBTQ community has a rich history in Philly. The nexus of all this amazing history is the Gayborhood. This vibrant downtown neighborhood is home to a rich gay bar culture dating back to the 1930s. The Historical Society of Pennsylvania sits in the midst of this neighborhood and will be the hub of a three-institution buffet of exhibitions, walking tours, and more for this evening event that explores LGBTQ history, deep archival collections, and the ways in which art and history intersect. Attendees will also visit the Library Company of Philadelphia and the William Way LGBT Community Center to enjoy special pop-up exhibits and a Taste of Philly buffet. Sponsored by 1220 Exhibits.

Thursday, August 29

An Evening at Eastern State Penitentiary
6:30–9:30 pm, Cost: $25
Eastern State Penitentiary addresses some of the most complex and controversial topics facing our nation with innovative and non-traditional programming and a “stabilized ruin” approach to preservation. Begin your visit outside the prison with drinks and snacks while viewing short animated films commissioned from currently-incarcerated artists and projected onto the prison’s thirty-foot high walls. Experience the penitentiary’s eerie, spectacular architecture, including a visit to award-winning exhibits and drop-in tour of the hospital, synagogue, and “the Hole.” As a site of memory and conscience, the penitentiary will stay true to its mission during the event by involving formerly incarcerated men and women as tour guides and musicians during the evening. Sponsored by the First Division Museum at Cantigny Park, part of the Robert R. McCormick Foundation.

Friday, August 30

Leadership in History Awards Banquet
6:30–9:30 pm, Cost: $79
Join AASLH in honoring the best in state and local history at the 2019 Leadership in History Awards. The evening will include dinner and a lively awards presentation. Sponsored by History™.
Wednesday, August 28

These events are not included in the Annual Meeting registration fee and require preregistration. Visit the registration desk for details. Note: Some events may be sold out.

MORNING WORKSHOPS
8:30 am–12 pm

W1 A Different Type of Field-Trip: A Visit and Conversation with Philadelphia Students and Educators
Cost: $45
Location: Offsite; Meet bus at 17th St. Hotel entrance
Participants in this workshop will visit a Philadelphia public high school and meet students and the teacher in an honors African American history class. The group will together discuss an essential question: what are we waiting for to teach a thorough and nuanced history of slavery in the United States?

W2 Collaborative Visitor Experience Design
Cost: $45
Room: Freedom E
In this workshop, participants will take a collaborative approach to creating engaging visitor experiences by using design thinking. We will explore how exhibit and program development can be integrated across institutional boundaries and traditional job functions. Through learning collaborative tools and methods, participants will enrich their professional practice.
Chair: John Summers, Regional Municipality of Halton, Burlington, Ontario, Canada; Meredith Leonard, Regional Municipality of Halton, St. Catherine’s, Ontario, Canada

W3 Field Services Alliance Meeting
Cost: Free
Room: Salon 5/6
The Field Services Alliance (AASLH Affinity Community) consists of those who provide training and capacity-building services for history organizations and museums. Join FSA members to hear about current trends in the work of field services offices, upcoming programs and services, and how FSA is working towards articulating its impact and outcomes. Visit aaslh.org/resources/affinity-communities/fieldservicesalliance for more information.

W4 Women Leading with Power and Authenticity
Cost: $45
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South
This workshop will build women’s ability to recognize their inherent leadership strengths and how they are an asset for success. It will begin to create an advocacy platform designed to inform the history field of the gender inequalities in leadership and what needs to be done to address this problem.
Chair: Melanie Adams, Smithsonian’s Anacostia Community Museum, Washington, DC; Anne Ackerson, Consultant, Troy, NY; Joan Baldwin, The Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, CT

FULL-DAY WORKSHOPS
8:30 am–5 pm

W5 Digital Preservation on a Shoestring Budget
Cost: $75
Room: Freedom F
This workshop will help participants cultivate knowledge to make informed digital preservation decisions on a small budget. Participants will gain hands-on experience with digital preservation tools and walk away with an action plan to put digital preservation theory into practice. Participants should bring a laptop with them to the workshop.
Chair: Anne Marie Willer, Northeast Document Conservation Center, Andover, MA

W6 Podcast Productions for Museums and Historic Sites
Cost: $75
Room: Independence B
Podcasting presents an opportunity for history organizations to meaningfully engage audiences with intimate, accessible, long-form audio content. This workshop will introduce participants to every aspect of in-house podcast production.
Attendees will get hands-on experience producing a podcast and have the opportunity to develop and workshop podcast concepts for their institutions.

Chair: Hannah Hethmon, H. Hethmon Consulting, Upper Marlboro, MD

W7 Presenting, Interpreting, and Discussing Difficult Issues in African American History: How to Build Organizations’ Capacities to Respond to Opportunities and Challenges

Cost: $75
Room: Independence A
Drawing on the experiences of a collaboration among several institutions delivering six workshops over a period of less than three years, this session will describe how this effort has contributed to building the capacity of organizations in the Mid-Atlantic region to tackle these critical topics. Attendees will explore how to build collaborative partnerships across diverse institutions, develop workshop agendas that address the needs of specific target audiences, provide opportunities for exchange of ideas and experiences among peers, and inspire discussion and stimulate lively exchange in a supportive environment.

W8 Easy Disaster Planning with dPlan

Cost: $45
Room: Salon 3/4
This workshop will cover the basic concepts of disaster planning and provide a preview of a major update to the dPlan disaster planning tool. Participants will be introduced to the features in the new dPlan (to be released later in 2019) and will get a head start on disaster planning through exercises facilitated by the instructor, all of which can be used with the new dPlan once it is released. Participants should bring their own laptops.

Chair: Sean Ferguson, Northeast Document Conservation Center, Andover, MA

W9 History Leadership Forum

Cost: $60
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North
The History Leadership Forum invites emerging and established leaders at history organizations to gather for an opportunity to think critically about and discuss major challenges at our institutions. This year’s Forum will ask attendees to consider critical questions about management, leadership, and followership, and explore how new understandings of these concepts can aid in meeting challenges of everyday work life and issues facing the history field. The forum will challenge you to think about leadership in new ways to help your organization solve problems and carry out your mission.

Speaker: Julie I. Johnson, PhD, J2R2 Leadership & Change Associates and National Science Foundation, Washington, DC

W10 Introduction to Sites of Conscience Dialogue

Cost: $45
Room: Salon 10
Dialogue is a foundational skill for museums in authentically supporting communities, building audience-centered programming, and facing the past and engaging with the most pressing issues of the present. This session will introduce participants to the basic theory and skills of facilitated dialogue through presentation and group work.

Chair: Braden Paynter, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, Washington, DC

W11 Telling Inclusive Stories Through Public History Festivals

Cost: $45
Room: Freedom E
Don’t wait for traditional public programs to tell inclusive stories. Participants will learn about inclusive interpretation through interactive activities and small group discussions. Festivals are an excellent interdisciplinary tool for public history.

Chair: Dennis Doster, PhD, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Beltsville, MD; Karen Marshall, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Upper Marlboro, MD; Devin Mills, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Upper Marlboro, MD; Gina Vaughan, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Upper Marlboro, MD

W12 What’s the Story?: How to Use Storytelling as a Dynamic Alternative to Traditional Forms of Interpretation

Cost: $45
Room: Salon 11
Using a case study model, participants will gain background and then, through hands-on experience, learn how to build compelling, historically accurate, and interactive stories using methods that they can adapt and employ at their sites. This workshop will be held at the Arch Street Meeting House.

New Member/First Time Attendee Reception
Cost: Free; Preregistration Recommended
Room: Logans 1/2
Are you or your institution a new member of AASLH? Is this your first AASLH Annual Meeting? Come learn about what AASLH and the Annual Meeting have to offer and how you can reap the benefits from your membership and your time at the conference. Also, meet fellow AASLH members, along with members of the AASLH Council and staff.

10 am–12 pm

Naturalization Ceremony
Cost: Free; Preregistration Required
Location: James A. Byrne U.S. Courthouse
AASLH’s Law and Civics Affinity Committee has arranged for Annual Meeting attendees to observe a naturalization ceremony at 10:30 am in the Ceremonial Courtroom at the James A. Byrne United States Courthouse, located one block from Independence Hall. Approximately 100 applicants for citizenship from 40 different countries will be naturalized. The presiding judge and special guests, including one of the new citizens, will make remarks. New citizens will be greeted with American flags and voter registration forms. Please note that to enter the courthouse you must pass through security screening. Be sure to bring a valid, government-issued photo ID. Weapons may not be brought into the courthouse. Photography of the ceremony is permitted. Naturalization ceremonies are very moving occasions and mark one of the most important days in a new citizen’s life. AASLH appreciates the willingness of the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services in making space available for AASLH attendees.

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

10:45 am–12 pm

S1 Corporate History in Non-Profit Places
Room: Salon 10
Many non-profit historical museums own and interpret corporate history collections. This session will compare interpretations of industrial artifacts in corporate and non-profit places and present successes and challenges in interpreting corporate history at the Senator John Heinz History Center and the National Museum of American History.
Chair: Melissa Bingmann, West Virginia University, Morgantown, WV; Kathy Franz, National Museum of American History, Washington, DC; Anne Madarasz, Senator John Heinz History Center, Pittsburgh, PA; Emily Ruby, Senator John Heinz History Center, Pittsburgh, PA
S2 A Discussion of Tribally Driven Research and Programs
Room: Freedom F
This session asks attendees to consider the need for and benefits of truly community-engaged scholarship and programming with American Indian tribes. What does it look like when research and programming is driven by and for American Indian tribes? How can we shift away from call-and-respond engagement wherein museums or universities drive the need and ask for tribal response or blessing? How are sustainability, collaboration, audience impact, and learning changed when tribal communities see a community benefit every time they work with our museums and historic sites? Come and hear from representatives who have engaged in projects that have benefited and seated power with tribal communities.
Chair: Natalie Wadle, Shawnee Tribe Cultural Center, Miami, OK; Ben Barnes, Shawnee Tribe, Miami, OK; George Ironstrack, Miami University, Oxford, OH; Shannon Martin, Zilwaukee Center of Anishinabe Culture and Lifeways, Mt. Pleasant, MI

S3 Drawing the Line: Gender Equity and Facing Sexual Harassment and Mistreatment in the Cultural Field
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North
Let's talk about Gender Equity. The #MeToo movement has prompted much-needed conversations in our society about how women are treated in the workplace. This session will provide a brave space to discuss some recent initiatives that illustrate the intersection of feminization of labor and sexual harassment within the cultural workforce. Sponsored by AASLH’s Diversity and Inclusion Committee.
Chair: Veronica Gallardo, Casemate Museum, Fort Monroe Authority, Fort Monroe, VA; Enimini Ekong, National Park Service, Topeka, KS; Diana Gallardo, Kiwi Partners, New York, NY; Sylvea Hollis, PhD, Nepenthe Post-Doctoral Fellow, Gender and Sexual Equality, Arlington, VA; Melissa Prycer, Dallas Heritage Village, Dallas, TX; Kate Quinn, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA

S4 Exploring Historic Themes and Contemporary Issues Through Modern Art
Room: Freedom H
This session explores how organizations can address contemporary issues and historical themes through modern art installations. Glen Foerd on the Delaware has engaged artists to utilize the site’s natural, historical, and physical assets to create installations addressing climate change, poverty, and the diversification of historical narratives.

S5 Inconvenient Misconceptions: When Fundraising Is Hard(er)
Room: Freedom E
We’re all waiting for fundraising to get easier. But what happens when misperceptions make it even more difficult? This session features a panel of leaders from several organizations discussing how they address fundraising misconceptions created by state and federal affiliations, assumptions about benefactors, earned income challenges and more.
Chair: Jamie Simek, Indianapolis Motor Speedway Museum, Indianapolis, IN; Jennifer Hiatt, Indianapolis Motor Speedway Museum, Indianapolis, IN; David Jansen, Brucemore National Trust Historic Site and Cultural Center, Cedar Rapids, IA; Jeff Matsuoka, Indiana Historical Society, Indianapolis, IN S6 Lightning Sessions—What Was I Waiting For?

Room: Freedom G
Join the Educators and Interpreters Affinity Community for a series of quick talks on the topic of breaking through, taking risks, being creative despite barriers, and creating a workplace culture that embraces change and managed risk. Engage in conversation about how to break through a seemingly impossible issue, task, or topic.
Chair: Megan Wood, Ohio History Connection, Columbus, OH; Mark Howell, Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation, Williamsburg, VA; Lora Cooper, Thomas Jefferson Foundation/Monticello, Charlottesville, VA

S7 Making the Most of Your Collections Assessment: How to Prioritize and Fund Collections Care
Room: Independence B
Presenter will discuss different types of assessments institutions can use to evaluate their collections care needs and how to leverage them for funding preservation projects. Presenters will walk the audience through a preservation needs assessment and describe how they can be used to help fund preservation initiatives at a museum.
Chair: Samantha Forsko, Conservation Center for Art & Historic Artifacts, Philadelphia, PA; Sara Hesdon Buehler, Brandywine River Museum of Art, Chadds Ford, PA; Trent Rhodes, Brandywine River Museum of Art, Chadds Ford, PA

S8 Museum as Site for Social Action
Room: Independence A
The MASS Action project involves museum practitioners, artists, community organizers, and scholars who worked collaboratively to build a resource dedicated to creating museum-based practices that are more equitable and socially just. In this interactive session led by project contributors, participants will gain key insights from the project.
Chair: Cinnamon Catlin-Legutko, Abbe Museum, Bar Harbor, ME; Dina Bailey, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY; Chris Taylor, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN
S9 Telling a Fuller Story at Historic Sites [DI]
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South
Hear about three projects funded by the National Trust for Historic Preservation's African American Cultural Heritage Action Fund and join a discussion about how historic sites, regardless of the time periods or topics they primarily interpret, can diversify their storytelling, programming, and collections to tell a fuller American story.
Chair: Carrie Villar, National Trust for Historic Preservation, Washington, DC; Asantewa Boakyewa, President Woodrow Wilson House, Washington, DC; Amanda Phillips, Woodlawn & Pope-Leighey House, Alexandria, VA

S10 Time to Think Big: IMLS Opportunities for Small Museums [ST]
Room: Salon 3/4
Have you heard the big news for small museums? Small museums can engage with IMLS through funding opportunities and programs including the Inspire! Grants for Small Museums, Collections Assessment for Preservation, and Museum Assessment Program (MAP). In this interactive session, attendees will hear about funding opportunities, discuss proposal writing tips, and discover common pitfalls to avoid.
Chair: Steve Schwartzman, Institute of Museum and Library Services, Washington, DC; Ashley Jones, Institute of Museum and Library Services, Washington, DC

AFFINITY COMMUNITY LUNCHEONS

12:15–1:30 pm
These events are not included in the Annual Meeting registration fee and require preregistration. Visit the registration desk for more details.

Business History
Cost: $47
Room: Salon 5
Join the Business History Affinity Community for a lunch and learn about how corporations leverage their history for marketing, community outreach, and corporate giving.

Educators and Interpreters
Cost: $47
Room: Horizons Rooftop
Join the Educators and Interpreters Community for lunch, networking, and discussion. Get a chance to meet other professionals, contribute to a lively lunch discussion, and learn more about the work of the Educators and Interpreters Affinity Community.

Religious History
Cost: $47
Room: Salon 6
William Penn's experiment in religious tolerance attracted people of diverse beliefs to Pennsylvania. Join the Religious History Community for a presentation by Professor Rebecca T. Alpert of Temple University on Religious Tolerance in Early Philadelphia. Dr. Alpert is Senior Associate Dean, an ordained rabbi, and serves on the Philadelphia Commission on Human Relations.

Small Museums
Cost: $47
Room: Logans 1/2
Join your small museum colleagues for lunch and “How to Spot Opportunity When it is Disguised as Chaos” with Brooke Salvanto, Executive Director of Tuckerton Seaport in New Jersey. The idea that “In the midst of chaos, there is also opportunity” has never found a greater home than in a small museum! As Brooke Salvanto will share, while you cannot control the wind, at some point you will want to, or may have to, adjust your sails. Examples and ideas of how Tuckerton Seaport has turned chaos into opportunity offer inspiration for small museums around the country. In addition, the AASLH Collections Management Software Task Force will do a short presentation on choosing the right collections software for a small museum.

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

1:45–3 pm

S11 Archives in Action: Catalyzing Ecological Awareness [ST]
Room: Freedom G
Orange County, California has over 55,000 acres of open space. Using the fight to preserve open space in the region as a starting point, participants will discuss the question, “How can history practitioners illuminate and activate archives documenting confrontation, collaboration, and compromise among various stakeholders to address environmental concerns?”
Chair: Krystal Tribbett, University of California Irvine, Irvine, CA

S12 Building Bridges by Facing Difficult Institutional History [DI]
Room: Independence A
In a landmark northern Civil Rights case, Girard College, a Philadelphia boarding school established for “poor white male orphans,” was desegregated by court order in 1968. Stakeholders from the 50th anniversary commemoration will discuss lessons learned and practical guidance for facing difficult history, discussing race, (re)building trust, and reaching out.
Chair: Kathy Haas, Girard College, Philadelphia, PA; Karen Asper-Jordan, Cecil B. Moore Philadelphia Freedom Fighters, Philadelphia, PA; Rafaela Foster, Girard College, Philadelphia, PA; Bernard Oliver Jr., Washington, DC

S13 Changing Lenses on the Civil War [MR]
Room: Independence C
For generations, power and privilege colored the lenses through which the public encountered history, such as the Civil War and its legacies. Explore the motivations, lessons learned, and strategies that foster a more accurate and relevant understanding of history from staff whose sites intentionally embraced changing traditional narratives.

Chair: Stephanie Arduini, American Civil War Museum, Richmond, VA; Jennifer Edginton, Kenosha Public Museums, Kenosha, WI; Peter Miele, Seminary Ridge Museum, Gettysburg, PA; John Spann, Two Mississippi Museums, Jackson, MS; Alexandria Wood, Ford’s Theatre Society, Washington, DC

S14 Create Your Own Media—Forming the Narrative

Room: Independence D

Many historical institutions have fantastic programming, but their visitors do not necessarily know about these programs. This session aims to solve media relations problems by providing concrete strategies to engage the press, grow social media audiences, and streamline externally-facing digital and print publications to connect the past to the present informatively and aesthetically.

Chair: Ashley Nelson, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY; Hannah Hethmon, H. Hethmon Consulting, Upper Marlboro, MD; Allison Tucker, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY.

S15 Designing for Impact

Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South

To deepen Idahoans’ connection to their state, build a statewide sense of community, and create an essential resource for education, the new Idaho State Museum was designed for purposeful impact. This session explores engagement practices used to achieve statewide resonance, understand effective outcomes of the museum experience, and respond to community needs.

Chair: Janet L. Gallimore, Idaho State Historical Society, Boise, ID; Sandra Clark, Michigan History Center, Lansing, MI; Randy L. Teton, Shoshone-Bannock Tribe, Fort Hall, ID; Dr. Gloria Totoricagüena, Idaho Policy and Consulting, Boise, ID.

S16 Different Approaches to Interpreting LGBTQ, Race, and Women’s Issues at Historic Houses

Room: Freedom F

We who work in historic houses need to tell more diverse and inclusive stories. This session examines how to successfully interpret women’s lives, LGBTQ people’s history, as well as race and ethnicity. We use multiple examples to get at underlying strategies participants can use to make interpretation inclusive and welcoming.

Chair: Susan Ferentinos, PhD, Bloomington, IN; Claudia B. Ocello, Museum Partners Consulting, LLC, Maplewood, NJ; Kenneth C. Turino, Historic New England, Boston, MA; Mary van Balgooy, Society of Woman Geographers, Washington, DC.

S17 FSA Tips: Fundraising 101

Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North

This hands-on, 101 session is geared towards breaking down the barriers to understanding fundraising for a small history organization. Join come fellow attendees to try your hand at crafting your organization’s message and needs statement.

Chair: Jennifer Ortiz, Utah Division of Arts & Museums, Salt Lake City, UT; Amanda Higgins, Kentucky Historical Society, Frankfort, KY; Bryce Gorman, Indiana Historical Society, Indianapolis, IN; Lee Price, Conservation Center for Art & Historic Artifacts, Philadelphia, PA.

S18 Rescued or Stolen? Perspectives on Collections

Room: Freedom H

From farmers’ fields to battlefields, well-meaning people “discover” objects that often end up in historical collections. In debate-style, panelists will consider brief case studies and present arguments for declining, preserving, returning, deaccessioning, and/or destroying artifacts in collections. Participants will be invited to submit their dilemmas (anonymously) for discussion and debate.

Chair: Sally Yerkovich, The American-Scandinavian Foundation, New York, NY; Ben Garcia, San Diego Museum of Man, San Diego, CA; Shane Keil, First Division Museum at Cantigny Park, Wheaton, IL; Erin Richardson, Erin Richardson Consulting, Cooperstown, NY.

S19 Wanting to Know? American Perspectives on Bias, Trust, and Inclusive History

Room: Independence B

Many history organizations are working hard to more effectively share a complete, inclusive history. How willing are our audiences to listen to those stories of the past and present? This panel will share important research and lessons being learned through the IMLS Leadership Grant-funded project, “Unvarnished.”

Chair: Donna Sack, Naper Settlement, Naperville, IL; Dina Bailey, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY; Sabrina Robins, PhD, African Heritage, Inc, Appleton, WI; Susie Wilkening, Wilkening Consulting, Seattle, WA.

S20 Working Collaboratively: Digitizing the Records of Philadelphia’s Historic Congregations

Room: Freedom E

Six congregations and three archival repositories have banded together to digitize the records of eleven of Philadelphia’s historic congregations and make their records available online through a unified portal. Working collaboratively they secured funding, found individuals and institutions to provide technical expertise, and recruited volunteers to make it all possible. This session will explore how working collaboratively and sharing resources makes great initiatives possible.

Chair: Carol W. Smith, Christ Church, Philadelphia, PA; Walter Rice, R & R Computer Solutions, Philadelphia, PA; Nancy Taylor, Presbyterian Historical Society, Philadelphia, PA.
S21 Access History: Creating Inclusive Education Programs at Cultural Institutions

Room: Independence C

Perhaps more than other professionals within the field, public-facing staff push forward social change as it directly and positively affects visitors. Attendees will be immersed in a variety of inclusive experiences useful to any museum professional working with a public of varying socioeconomic statuses, cultural backgrounds, gender identities, and abilities.

Chair: Abigail Diaz, Wisconsin Maritime Museum, Manitowoc, WI; Megan Becker, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Jennifer Edginton, Kenosha Public Museums, Kenosha, WI

S22 Can Audiences Design Their Own Programs?

Room: Independence A

How do we design programs for audiences that are new to us? The Historical Society of Pennsylvania partnered with Taller Puertorriqueño to create a model that required letting go of institutional authority. Hear about the successes and challenges from those who worked to diversify HSP’s (and Taller’s) audiences.

Chair: Seth Bruggeman, Temple University, Philadelphia, PA; Carmen Febo San Miguel, Taller Puertorriqueño, Philadelphia, PA; Henrietta Hickman, Cherry Hill, NJ; Ain Gordon, Brooklyn, NY

S23 Food and History Relevance: A Book Discussion

Room: Freedom H

Today’s public is interested in making food systems fairer, healthier, and more sustainable. Cathy Stanton and Michelle Moon will introduce the audience to the ideas in their co-authored 2018 book Public History and the Food Movement: Adding the Missing Ingredient and Michelle’s 2015 book Interpreting Food at Museums and Historic Sites. The authors will explore how museums and historic sites can demonstrate relevance by exploring interlinked questions about human sustenance and environmental resilience.

Session sponsored by the National Council on Public History.

Chair: Rebecca Shrum, IUPUI, Indianapolis, IN; Michelle Moon, Tenement Museum, New York, NY; Cathy Stanton, Tufts University, Medford, MA

S24 The Future is Female: Championing Women in Museum Leadership

Room: Logans 1/2

What accounts for the persistent gender gap in history organization leadership? Join four leaders to surface barriers holding women and gender minorities back from senior positions, including the "confidence gap," recruiting conventions, and implicit bias. Work together to create action strategies—personal and collective—and champion real change.

Chair: Kim Fortney, National History Day, College Park, MD; Melanie Adams, Smithsonian’s Anacostia Community Museum, Washington, DC; Donna Sack, Naper Settlement, Naperville, IL; Jessica Stavros, Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites, New Albany, IN

History Leadership Talks

Room: Salon 10

This session will feature three 15-minute presentations on different topics in the history field followed by time for informal discussion with the individual presenters.

S25 Collecting the Now: As political and social changes happen rapidly around the world, the pressure rises to document and collect current events. How can we think more deeply about contemporary collecting? Using examples from the International Sites of Conscience, come consider provocative questions about the process. There’s no waiting when current events happen!

Presenter: Linda Norris, Around the Globe, Sites of Conscience, New York, NY

S26 How Cultural Heritage Is Jazzing Up the We Are Still In Movement: History organizations make up half of the cultural institutions supporting the global Paris Agreement through We Are Still In. They’re looking for ways to document their sustainability and climate successes, find advice, and create partnerships across sectors to support change in their communities. Signing on: Free; saying #ClimateMatters: Priceless.

Presenter: Joel M. Hoffman, PhD, Vizcaya Museum and Gardens, Miami, FL

S27 Temple or Forum? Engaging Salient Topics in Museum Education: A member of the Education Department staff from the National September 11 Memorial & Museum offers best practices for professionals whose work intersects with polarizing topics in societal discourse. Strategies for passive and active engagement with difficult content will be discussed, as well as audience and mission-appropriate considerations across a variety of institutional programming.

S28 Interpreting History When Your Hands are Tied: Adapting to Political Change and Cultivating Conversation

Room: Salon 5

This session, led by public historians and members of North Carolina’s Division of State Historic Sites, will address ways our institutions can step towards a proactive response to current political and social issues. Let’s discuss how we can interpret and support our spaces when the preferred, “non-partisan,” institutional approach is one of inaction.

Chair: Kara Deadmon, North Carolina State Capitol, Raleigh, NC; Vera Cecelski, Historic Stagville, Durham, NC; Kimberly Floyd, Vance Birthplace State Historic Site, Weaverville, NC
S29 More Sustainable Historic Sites through Heritage Tourism: Case Study Camden County, NJ
Room: Salon 6
Learn about a new effort in Camden County, NJ, to organize forty-eight historic sites and history organizations for a regional heritage tourism effort. Help us problem solve about motivating historic sites to promote and thus sustain sites for visitation and inspiring volunteer-led sites to open for regular public hours.

Chair: Donna Ann Harris, Heritage Consulting Inc., Philadelphia, PA; Bonny Beth Etwell, Camden County History Alliance, Camden, NJ; Dorothy P. Guzzo, New Jersey Historic Trust, Trenton, NJ; Dr. Jack O’Byrne, Camden County Historical Society, Camden, NJ; Linda Shockley, Lawnside Historical Society, Lawnside, NJ

S30 Not for Sale: Preserving and Sharing a Community Collection
Room: Freedom E
This session explores a contested collection of Japanese American artifacts from incarceration collected by curator Allen Hendershot Eaton in 1945. In 2015, a public auction of these artifacts was halted by a grassroots protest that led to their acquisition by a community-based institution raising questions about authority, community, and provenance.

Chair: Clement Hanami, Japanese American National Museum, Los Angeles, CA; Shirley Ann Higuchi, Heart Mountain Wyoming Foundation, Powell, WY; Nancy Ukai, 50objects.org, Berkeley, CA

S31 Preserving Religious History in Changing Communities
Room: Freedom F
Many historical organizations and their communities struggle with how to preserve historic places of worship and cemeteries that no longer have active congregations. Three projects, focusing on African American religious sites, offer innovative approaches for preserving religious history sites in an environment of demographic change, gentrification, and population shifts.

S32 Spit Spreads Death: Finding Stories in Death Data
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North
In this hands-on session, play with data from over 20,000 death certificates from the 1918–1919 influenza pandemic, recently transcribed by the Mütter Museum of The College of Physicians of Philadelphia. Learn about compiling and analyzing such data to discover stories of illness, death, and life in Philadelphia a century ago.

S33 The Time is Now—A Multi-Perspective Conversation About Slavery Education
Room: Salon 3/4
What are we waiting for to teach a thorough and nuanced history of slavery in the United States? Participants in this session will connect with classroom teachers and curriculum specialists to consider that question. Join this shared conversation and learn strategies and resources that will strengthen your organization’s education and interpretation.

S34 The Whole Really Is Greater than the Sum of Our Parts: How History Organizations Collaborate to Expand Impact
Room: Independence B
While we may value the concept of collaboration, many of us continue to operate our organizations in silos—viewing colleagues as competitors and considering neighbors’ requests a distraction from “our” mission. Join our panelists to explore how to increase your organization’s impact, community engagement, visibility, diversity, and sustainability through strategic collaboration.

S35 What Lurks in the Basement: Finding the Silver Lining in HVAC Projects
Room: Freedom G
Who knew that HVAC could be ... fun? This panel of survivors from three National Historic Landmarks in the tri-state area will share how they’ve found silver lining in mechanical systems failures, offering advice for integrating facilities planning (which often gets put off until doom is impending) with interpretation and use planning.

Chair: Brenton Grom, Delaware Historical Society, New Castle, DE; Justina Barrett, Philadelphia Museum of Art, Philadelphia, PA; Brian MacKiw, Morven Museum & Garden, Princeton, NJ

RECEPTIONS

StEPs Friday Morning MeetUP

Cost: $15; Preregistration Required
Room: Logans 1

This year’s MeetUP focuses on best practices for using StEPs (Standards and Excellence Program for History Organizations) as a tool for assessment and meaningful change. Through a combination of brief presentations and small group discussions we’ll explore a variety of creative ways in which historical societies, museums, and related organizations are using the StEPs program. Bring your questions and your own success stories to add to the discussions. Get inspired to return home and put the best practices to work within your organization. Whether your organization is already using StEPs or it might be interested in enrolling in the program, you are invited to join us. Continental breakfast included.

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

8–9:15 am

S36 Afrocentric History Museums—Shall We Start an Afrocentric Museum Resistance Movement?

Room: Independence A

History museums in the US and beyond still interpret predominantly white histories. This session presents museums in the United States, Canada, and Brazil working from an Afrocentric lens, and the many challenges faced, from denialisum to political pressure, barriers to community engagement to lack of funding. Could an Afrocentric museum resistance movement help?

Chair: Gegê Leme Joseph, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, Long Island City, NY; Caitlin Blue, Niagara Falls Underground Railroad Heritage Center, Niagara Falls, NY; Ally Spongr, Niagara Falls Underground Railroad Heritage Center, Niagara Falls, NY

S37 Erasing Silences: Sally Hemings Monticello

Room: Freedom E

Discover the process, stakeholders, values, and design of an exhibition with a powerful message packed into a small space. The panelists contributed to the creation of The Life of Sally Hemings, an emotionally powerful presentation of her life and the dynamics of race, power, sex, and slavery at Monticello.

Chair: Gary Sandling, Monticello/Thomas Jefferson Foundation, Charlottesville, VA; Geneviève Angio-Morneau, GSM Project, Montréal, Québec, Canada; Niya Bates, Monticello/Thomas Jefferson Foundation, Charlottesville, VA; Emilie Johnson, Monticello/Thomas Jefferson Foundation, Charlottesville, VA

S38 From Polling Places to Naturalization Ceremonies: A Practical Guide to Civic Engagement

Room: Freedom G

Looking for ways to engage your community and attract new audiences? Consider hosting major civic events, such as naturalization ceremonies, or serving as a polling site! Panelists will discuss how-to questions while exploring the benefits that civic partnerships have brought their organizations. Sponsored by the AASLH Law and Civics Affinity Community.

Chair: Doria Lynch, United States District Court for the Southern District of Indiana, Indianapolis, IN; Charles Hyde, Benjamin Harrison Presidential Site, Indianapolis, IN; Kerry Sautner, National Constitution Center, Philadelphia, PA

S39 Helping Your Community Decide Which Historic Places to Protect From the Impact of Climate Change

Room: Salon 3/4

Share your ideas about how historical organizations can help their communities come to grips with the prospect of losing valuable historical resources to the impact of climate change, and ensure that decisions about what to protect and what to let go are made in a fair and equitable manner.

Chair: David Glassberg, University of Massachusetts Amherst, Amherst, MA

History Leadership Talks

Room: Salon 10

This session will feature two 15-minute presentations on different topics in the history field followed by time for informal discussion with the individual presenters.

S40 Inside Out: The Learning Process in the Minds of History Museum Visitors: What exactly is going on inside the heads of your visitors? Are they actually learning anything? Come hear about research findings that reveal how curiosity, recollection, puzzling, and meaning making can trigger new learning or expand previous knowledge during guided tours.

Presenter: Lisa Marcinkowski Jane, University of Connecticut, Niantic, CT

S41 Set Your Mind on Fire: How to Stop Worrying and Love Creating: Do you find yourself staring at a blank screen (or object list) wondering what to do next? Are you stuck in a creative rut? Come explore techniques that writers use to combat creative block and see how museum professionals can apply them to find inspiration in our everyday work.

Presenter: Gwen Whiting, Washington State Historical Society, Tacoma, WA

S42 Making a Statement: Bringing Transparency to Institutional Point of View

Room: Freedom H

If “museums are not neutral,” then what IS their point of view? How can museums and historic sites become more transparent about their fundamental understandings? Three prominent museums explain how they developed straightforward language around difficult history, helping audiences and staff orient themselves to the starting points for interpretive experiences.

Chair: Michelle Moon, Tenement Museum, New York, NY; Sean Kelley, Eastern State Penitentiary, Philadelphia, PA; Kat Lloyd, Tenement Museum, New York, NY; Mandy Van Heuvelen, National Museum of the American Indian, Washington, DC

S43 Managing a Public History Career with Chronic and Invisible Illness

Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South

Managing a career in public history while dealing with chronic and invisible illness is challenging. Panelists will discuss the impact of their health journeys on their professional lives, and in partnership with the audience, discuss field-wide solutions to include and support our health-impacted colleagues.

Chair: Susan Fletcher, The Navigators, Colorado Springs, CO; Andrew Albertson, Museum of Indian Arts and Culture, Santa Fe, NM; Courtney McNamara, Johns Hopkins University, Washington, DC; Sandra Smith, Heinz History Center, Pittsburgh, PA

S44 Marketing Makeovers: Small Changes, Big Results

Location: Philadelphia Ballroom North

We get frustrated when we know we’ve created an excellent program, but attendance doesn’t meet expectations. How can we best promote our programs with current and potential audiences? How should we modify our communication strategies? And whose responsibility is it to be involved in the process? Come join the discussion.

Chair: Alexandra Rasie, Workman and Temple Family Homestead Museum, City of Industry, CA; Tobi Voigt, Michigan History Center, Lansing, MI

S45 Military History Museums: More Relevant Than Ever!

Room: Independence C

For a generation, military history has supposedly been on the decline in academic circles, but military museums are still very popular. Explore what three institutions are doing to make military history relevant to modern audiences.

S46 Small Museums, Big Aspirations: Engaging Community, Co-Creating, and Collaborating

Room: Independence B

Directors of several small museums, including an Underground Railroad site and a traditional historic house museum, will share how their organizations revitalized their sites and increased their public reach. From curating an ambitious exhibit to changing to a women’s history center, each used collaboration to achieve their goals. Sponsored by the AASLH Small Museums Affinity Community.

Chair: Brian J. Failing, Aurora Regional Fire Museum, Aurora, IL; Jillian Allison, Center for Colorado Women’s History at the Byers-Evans House Museum, Denver, CO; Alison Costanzo, St. Charles History Museum, St. Charles, IL; Sarah Richardt, Lombard Historical Society, Lombard, IL

S47 The Warm-Minded Museum

Location: Logans 2

Join three museum professionals who had the unique opportunity to meet the Dalai Lama. We’ll explore his call for museums to embrace a purposeful focus on connecting knowledge and compassion—a concept he called “warmth of mind.” Come and experience this fastening of the heart and mind for yourself.

Chair: Andrea Jones, Peak Experience Lab, Brentwood, MD; Callie Hawkins, President Lincoln’s Cottage, Washington, DC; Susie Wilkening, Wilkening Consulting, Seattle, WA

9:15–10:15 am

Break in Exhibit Hall

Room: Liberty AB

NCPH Poster Session

Location: Liberty CD

The National Council on Public History has partnered with AASLH to sponsor this poster session. Built on NCPH’s model for public history presentations that use visual evidence, presenters will share their work, including works-in-progress, through one-on-one discussion.

Thank You Reception

Cost: Free; Invitation Only

Room: Horizons Rooftop

Have you taken an extra step to support AASLH with time or money? Then please join us for a special thank you reception where we will celebrate our volunteers, donors, and sponsors. Amid all the business of the Annual Meeting, AASLH staff and Council members want to slow down and get to know you over coffee and pastries.

10:15–11:15 am

AASLH Meeting of the Membership

Room: Liberty CD

Join us for an open and engaging conversation with Council and AASLH leadership, and learn more about what’s on the horizon for AASLH. Bring your questions!

Chair: John Fleming, National Museum of African American Music, Nashville, TN

CONCURRENT SESSIONS
12:30–1:45 pm

S48 #MeToo, AASLH, NCPH, and the Field
Room: Freedom E
AASLH and the National Council on Public History (NCPH) are following conversations in the history field about preventing gender discrimination and sexual harassment at cultural institutions and educating members about their rights as staff and volunteers at these institutions. Representatives from AASLH and NCPH would like to hear from you about how we can specifically address these issues as your professional associations. Join us for a listening session on this important topic for all sectors of the history field.
Co-Chairs: Erin Carlson Mast, President Lincoln’s Cottage, Washington, DC, and Bethany L. Hawkins, AASLH, Nashville, TN; Mary Rizzo, Ph.D., Rutgers University, Newark, NJ; Stephanie Rowe, National Council on Public History, Indianapolis, IN

S49 Changing the Narrative: Interpreting Difficult Topics Using Dialogic Principles
Room: Salon 5/6
Do you find that you are unable to interpret difficult topics at your site due to fear of push-back from your board, volunteers, or the public? In this session, you will meet panelists from three institutions who have taken this step. Hear about strategies, tips, and lessons learned.
Chair: Geralyn Ducky, Rhode Island Historical Society, Providence, RI; Sheryl Hack, Connecticut Landmarks, Hartford, CT; Lisa Junkin Lopez, Juliette Gordon Low Birthplace, Girl Scouts of the USA, Savannah, GA

S50 Exploring Digital Solutions to Preserve and Share Our Heritage
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South
Discover how the Center for Knit and Crochet is building an online space to preserve and share our community’s craft history by merging institutional collections, crowdsourced objects, and the deep knowledge of makers. Learn how this approach can be adapted to your organization’s specialized collections.
Chair: Jennifer Lindsey, Center for Knit and Crochet, Chevy Chase, MD; Cheryl Klimaszewski, Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, Philadelphia, PA; Nicole H. Scalessa, Center for Knit and Crochet, Philadelphia, PA; Rebecca Keyel, Center for Knit and Crochet, Madison, WI

S51 The Future of Living History
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North
Living History is facing both internal and external pressure to appeal both to emerging museum professionals as well as an increasingly discerning public. This facilitated discussion will address how the field needs to evolve in order to remain a viable method of historical presentation for the next generation(s).
Chair: Mark Howell, Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation, Williamsburg, VA; Richard Josey, Collective Journeys, LLC, Newport News, VA

History Leadership Talks

S52 Achieving Neurodiversity: Creating Accessibility for Children with Autism in your Community
Room: Salon 10
Join autism mom and museum professional Jackie Spainhour as she provides insight into how museums of all sizes and scopes can adapt their facilities and programming to suit the needs of children on the autism spectrum. Let’s make breaking down barriers a priority. After all, what are we waiting for?
Speaker: Jaclyn Spainhour, Hunter House Victorian Museum, Norfolk, VA

S53 Queer Possibility:
Room: Independence D
This session will feature two 15-minute presentations on different topics in the history field followed by time for informal discussion with the individual presenters.

S54 Intercultural Collaboration: Museums as Agents and Conveners
Room: Independence D
Museums have the agency to act as community conveners. Through the lens of an inaugural project, Inherit Chicago, learn about intercultural collaboration that builds trust, engages diverse perspectives, and crosses neighborhood boundaries. Come away with tools ready to launch a celebration and include new voices at your museum.
Chair: Emily Reusswig, Chicago Cultural Alliance, Chicago, IL; Mabel Menard, Chinese American Museum of Chicago, Chicago, IL; Billy Ocasio, The National Museum of Puerto Rican Arts and Culture, Chicago, IL; Peter Vega, Chicago Cultural Alliance, Chicago, IL

S55 It’s Time to Ditch Your Historic House Tour
Room: Independence A
As historic house museums fight for relevancy, the Pearl S. Buck House transformed their visitor experience, integrating new technology as a tool to discuss race, gender, human rights, and the needs of differently-abled children. Find out how this shift has made them essential to the health of their community.
Chair: Marie Toner, Pearl S. Buck International, Perkasie, PA; Pradyuman Kodavatiganti, Night Kitchen Interactive, Philadelphia, PA; Sarah Pharaon, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY

Session Codes:  CE Creative and Experimental  HR History Relevance
S56 Lost & Founders: Augmented Reality Mobile Game to Engage Visitors Onsite
Location: Free Library of Philadelphia
This session invites attendees to play Lost & Founders, a mobile game that engages visitors at historic sites by bringing lost histories and stories to life using Augmented Reality. Attendees will experience a uniquely different sort of app that encourages “heads up” rather than “heads down” engagement. Note: Gather under the “Lost & Founders” sign in the hotel lobby and walk the three blocks together to the Free Library of Philadelphia. Transportation is not provided.

S57 Making Anniversaries Matter
Room: Independence C
How do we make anniversaries matter? How do they serve as opportunities for new growth rather than roadblocks? This session will draw on neuroscience, community health data, psychology, and public history to offer new frameworks for approach.
Chair: Braden Paynter, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, Washington, DC; Rainey Tisdale, Independent Consultant, Boston, MA

S58 Memorialization: Past, Present, and Future
Room: Freedom F
How can we deepen the conversation around past monuments and new memorials? What shall we remember? Should anything be forgotten? Global Sites of Conscience members share their perspectives on processes of memorialization, including not just bricks and mortar, but also memory-based art projects, re-namings, and commemorative ceremonies.
Chair: Linda Norris, Around the Globe, International Coalition of Sites of Conscience, New York, NY

S59 Secrets and Silences: When and How to Reveal Challenging Histories
Room: Independence B
Historians disclose uncomfortable truths. We walk genealogists through shame as we divulge “family secrets.” Sometimes we refuse the stories people tell about themselves, or the accounts that historic sites share with the world. This panel will explore the awkward, messy, and occasionally revelatory task of sharing upsetting and silenced narratives.
Chair: Annie Anderson, Eastern State Penitentiary Historic Site, Philadelphia, PA; Shareece Blakney, Mid-Atlantic Regional Center for the Humanities, Camden, NJ; Dennis Pickeral, Stenton Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Adrienne Whaley, Museum of the American Revolution, Philadelphia, PA

S60 Seizing the Power of the Pen
Room: Freedom G
Calling all writers! Whether you are thinking about writing or doing it, this session focuses on the power of the pen to expand the reach of history. Don’t put history books in a box, there are many ways to make history appealing through writing. What are you waiting for?
Chair: Tim Grove, Grove History Consulting, Falls Church, VA; Trevor Jones, History Nebraska, Lincoln, NE; Josh Leventhal, Minnesota Historical Society Press, St. Paul, MN; Rebecca Shrum, Indiana University - Purdue University Indianapolis, Indianapolis, IN

S61 What Are YOU Waiting For? A Lightning

Session of Ideas and Inspiration
Room: Freedom H
This lightning session highlights inspirational work by organizations of all kinds and sizes. Eighteen recipients of the 2019 Leadership in History Awards will each share in four minutes why their project mattered, how it was innovative, and what challenges they overcame, providing a potpourri of ideas to spark any organization.
Chair: Nicholas J. Hoffman, Missouri Historical Society, St. Louis, MO; Christy Crisp, Georgia Historical Society, Savannah, GA

S62 Why Preserving Material Culture of the Space Age Matters Now More Than Ever
Room: Salon 3/4
While spaceflight technology is represented in major museums, cultural relics from this history are disappearing quickly and should not be overlooked by institutions that could contribute to preservation and public engagement related to this phenomenon. Panelists will provide examples of relevant artifacts to recognize in local communities as well as demonstrate ways to interpret and present them in a larger historical context. In addition, they will share resources for complementary content that can supplement local collections.
Chair: Peter Kleeman, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Litchfield, CT; Margaret A. Weitekamp, PhD, Smithsonian’s National Air and Space Museum, Washington, DC; Thomas Hine, Philadelphia Inquirer and Freelance Writer, Philadelphia, PA

KEYNOTE SPEAKER

Room: Liberty AB

Concurrent Sessions
4-5:15 pm

S63 Advocating for Equity: How to Talk about Salaries in Your Museum
Room: Independence A
From unpaid internships, to salaries that don’t pay a living wage to gender disparity, poor pay creates an unhappy workforce. It also influences workforce demographics since those who can afford to accept low salaries tend to be more affluent and less diverse. We’ll discuss the issues—and potential solutions.
Chair: Scott Wands, Connecticut Humanities, Middletown, CT; Joan Baldwin, The Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, CT; Selsey Brow, King Manor Museum, Jamaica, NY; Ilene Frank, Connecticut Historical Society, Hartford, CT; Diane Jellerette, Norwalk Historical Society, Norwalk, CT

S64 All the Cool Kids are Doing It: Local History as Community Engagement
Room: Freedom E
How can using Smithsonian resources bolster community engagement? The panel will discuss how hosting a Museum on Main Street exhibition spurred youth and community engagement with local history through digital storytelling. This experience bridged age gaps and led to surprising outcomes by presenting history in a more relevant way.
Chair: Robbie Davis, Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service, Washington, DC; Robin Goetz, Brunswick Public Library, Brunswick, MD; Shannon Sullivan, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, DC

S65 Connecting Art, Activism, and Archives: A Case Study and Book-Making Activity
Location: Logans 1
Friends, Peace, and Sanctuary—a project that connects historic and contemporary stories of refuge through the book arts—will discuss the project and then lead attendees in a book-making activity. Participants will make an “easy book” that creatively combines archival material, personal reflections, and shared experiences around the topic of refuge.
Co-Chairs: Katie Price and Peggy Seiden, Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, PA; Yaroub Al-Obaidi, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA

S66 Decoding Financial Statements: How to Spot Trouble and Plan for the Future
Room: Freedom H
Financial reports are awesome tools to support organizational sustainability and growth, if you know how to read them. This session provides participants a crash course in understanding common financial reporting formats. Participants will learn to identify red flags, and how to avoid common mistakes that can lead to big problems.
Chair: Jennifer Kilmer, Washington State Historical Society, Tacoma, WA; Norman Burns, Conner Prairie, Fishers, IN

S70 Objects Are Complicated Too
Room: Independence B

Does a waning of the Colonial Revival explain the widening disconnect between museum objects and contemporary values? This session explores ways we have traditionally valued objects for the privileged stories they tell and how we can mobilize those same objects to convey a complete, inclusive past.

Chair: Laura C. Keim, Senton Museum, Philadelphia; Jessie MacLeod, George Washington’s Mount Vernon, Mount Vernon, VA; David B. Voelkel, Maymont, Richmond, VA

S71 On the Front Lines of Costumed Interpretation: The Challenges of Brining Women’s Stories to Life at Historic Sites
Location: Logans 2

What are some challenges in telling women’s stories using costumed interpretation at your historical site? Gain practical strategies from experienced educators about uncovering and interpreting diverse women’s histories via first and third person storytelling. Then, brainstorm ways to make costumed interpretation more inclusive, and safer for staff. Sponsored by the AASLH Women’s History Affinity Community.

S72 RACE-ing Toward Change: Exhibitions and Challenging Conversations
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North

This session explores the impact of RACE: Are We So Different? on museums and their audiences. It includes the perspectives of museum visitors and museum professionals in order to address the broader issues of museums as sites for engagement with difficult issues and as instruments of social change.

Chair: Patricia Mooney-Melvin, Loyola University, Chicago, IL; Tamara Biggs, Chicago History Museum, Chicago, IL; Elizabeth Fraterrigo, Loyola University, Chicago, IL; Sydney Garcia, San Diego Museum of Man, San Diego, CA

S73 Red Tape, Green Tape: Making Changes in a Bureaucracy
Room: Salon 5/6

Bureaucracy. Internal politics. Red tape. These exist in large organizations and small alike, and they make change next to impossible. Participants will hear two success stories of turning red tape into green and will engage in collaborative problem-solving with audience-provided examples of bureaucratic challenges.

Chair: Rebecca Katz, District of Columbia Office of Public Records, Washington, DC; Jackie Esposito, Penn State University, University Park, PA

S74 Shark Tank: Pitching New Ideas for Sites and Museums
Room: Salon 10

Inventive colleagues from across the country will pitch experimental and audacious ideas to our team of “sharks,” who are rich in experience and opinions, albeit lacking in investment dollars. The resulting dialogue will strengthen the ideas, the audience will be invited to participate, and something great will be born.

Chair: Jackie Barton, Birch Wood Planning, Westerville, OH

Cost: $40; Preregistration Required
Room: Logans 1/2
As we begin the last day of the conference, join fellow administrators to talk about what inspired you. What will you NOT be waiting for when you return to your institution? What do you need to wait for? Share your thoughts and next steps while getting in some last minute networking.

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

9–10:15 am

S75 #KnowBetterDoBetter: Measuring DEIA Impact at Your Organization
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North
Do inclusion efforts really require assessment? Assessment provides a more accurate understanding of your organization’s level of inclusion and provides a way to measure progress. Discover four assessment tools and ask your questions to learn more about the advantages and disadvantages of each to decide what’s right for your organization.
Chair: Stacy Klingler, Butterworth Center & Deere-Wiman House, Moline, IL; Janeen Bryant, Facilitate Movement, Charlotte, NC; Omar Eaton-Martinez, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Upper Marlboro, MD; Chris Taylor, Minnesota Historical Society, St. Paul, MN

S76 Building STEM Identity in Girls Outside of Science Centers
Room: Freedom E
In this panel, hear from non-science center museums who promote girls’ interest and identity in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM), through exhibitions, girl-friendly activities, partnerships with girl-serving organizations, and community events, thus creating new narratives around women’s roles in science and engineering.
Chair: Isabel Ziegler, Rosie the Riveter/WWII Home Front National Historical Park, Richmond, CA; Amber Kraft, National Archives and Records Administration, Washington, DC; Shari Levinsky-Raslan, Intrepid Sea, Air & Space Museum, New York, NY

S77 Deferred Maintenance: Investing in the Upkeep and Care of Our Frontline Staff
Room: Independence A
As historic sites tackle issues of social relevance, the work of frontline staff has evolved. Recruitment, training, and compensation models have not. Session participants will identify the skills staff need to engage visitors in relevant learning experiences and the training and support required to make this work personally and institutionally sustainable.
Chair: Elisabeth Nevin, Seed Education Consulting, Jamaica Plain, MA; Dr. Porchia Moore, Columbia Museum of Art, Columbia, SC; Lauren Zalut, Eastern State Penitentiary Historic Site, Philadelphia, PA

S78 Identifying and Prioritizing Magnetic Media for Preservation
Room: Freedom G
Audio cassettes, reel to reel audio tapes, and VHS tapes in our collections are decaying. We must ACT NOW to preserve the content on this magnetic media. Participants will handle media examples, connect with format identification tools, and become familiar with prioritization schemes for triaging media for digitization and reformattting.
Chair: Ann Marie Willer, Northeast Document Conservation Center, Andover, MA

S79 Overcoming Barriers to Improved Collections Care
Room: Independence C
Every institution, especially smaller ones, faces barriers to collections care and collections management. Lack of funding, small staffs, and institutional buy-in contribute to these problems. With the help of attendees, participants will identify common barriers to improving collections care and management and offer help to overcome these barriers.
Chair: M. Susan Barger, Connecting to Collections Care, Foundation for the American Institute for Conservation, Santa Fe, NM; Samantha Forsko, Conservation Center for Art & Historic Artifacts, Philadelphia, PA; Laura Heemer, Wharton Esherick Museum, Paoli, PA

S80 Pause for Perspective: Shattering the Glass Narrative
Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South
Wanting to inspire dialogue in our community around current events, Minnetrista prepared to relaunch a ten year old interpretation of a 1920s Ball jar embossed with imagery of the Ku Klux Klan—we then paused to gain perspective. Join us for a performance of the resulting theater piece and to explore the process.
Chair: Jessica Jenkins, Minnetrista, Muncie, IN; Mason Absher, Minnetrista, Muncie, IN; Aaron Bonds, Playwright, Muncie, IN; George Buss, Minnetrista, Muncie, IN; Keith Overall, Minnetrista, Muncie, IN

S81 Problems in Partnerships: Addressing Institutional Difference in a Collaborative World
Room: Salon 5/6
Why and how should institutions forge, sustain, or cut off partnerships? How do we measure a partnership’s success? And how can we decline partnerships while retaining... relationships? This session tackles these problems as we collectively develop criteria for organizations to use to assess when new partnerships are beneficial to growth.

Chair: Sarah Litvin, Reher Center for Immigrant Culture and History, Brooklyn, NY; Johnathan Thayer, Queens College, CUNY, Queens, NY

S82 Waiting for People and Money: Strategies for Building Support for House Museums

Room: Independence B

When house museums want to leap forward, wishful thinking isn’t enough. They need sufficient capacity and support to achieve their vision. We’ll explore three different but common approaches—the governing board, volunteers, and a major fundraising campaign—with an experienced director, mid-level program manager, and a national non-profit consultant.

Chair: Max van Balgooy, Engaging Places, LLC, Rockville, MD; Donna Ann Harris, Heritage Consulting, Inc. Philadelphia, PA; Alexandra Rasic, Homestead Museum, City of Industry, CA; Nina Zannieri, Paul Revere Memorial Association/Paul Revere House, Boston, MA

S83 We are No Longer Waiting: Teaching a More Inclusive American History

Room: Freedom F

Learn about new rich and nuanced materials for teaching American history based on recent scholarship and targeted to diverse classroom populations. Learn about two museums’ approaches and the research behind creating these new frameworks. Participants are encouraged to create new teacher resources.

BREAK IN FOYER

10:15–10:30 am

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

10:30 am–12 pm

S84 2020 Annual Meeting Roundtable

Room: Philadelphia Ballroom North

The program committee for the 2020 Annual Meeting in Las Vegas wants to hear your ideas for making the next meeting better. What did you like about the Philadelphia meeting? What should we have done differently? Members of the 2020 Annual Meeting program and host committees should attend. All meeting participants are welcome.

Chair: Omar Eaton-Martinez, Maryland-National Capital Parks & Planning Commission, Upper Marlboro, MD

S85 Back To School: Revitalizing School Programs and Curricula

Room: Freedom G

The Historical Society of Princeton’s thirty-year-old school curriculum was due for an upgrade. We wanted to incorporate diverse experiences. We wanted to incorporate twenty-first century teaching methods in STEAM and active learning. What were we waiting for? Come experience one classroom project that resulted from this collaborative redesign.

S86 Bringing the Past into the Present: Immigrant Storytelling through Museum Tours

Room: Freedom E

The Global Guides program hires immigrants and refugees to interpret artifacts while sharing stories about life in their home countries. Staff will discuss program implementation, while guides will demonstrate stories and describe tours. Attendees will gain insights on supporting guides with lived experience to share cultural stories that help to decolonize the museum.

Chair: Ellen Owens, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Yaroub Al-Obaidi, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Moumena Saradar, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA; Kevin Schott, Penn Museum, Philadelphia, PA

S87 Collections Management Software Conundrum: Answer—Collaboration

Room: Philadelphia Ballroom South

Museums would not exist without their collections. History consortiums in Connecticut, Minnesota, and Nova Scotia, Canada, have developed open-source, customized collection management software that allows their members to catalog and share their collections. We will discuss the benefits and challenges of collaborating on open-source, collectively hosted and managed software.

Chair: Ann Grady, Pope County Historical Society, Glenwood, MN; Dustin Heckman, Minnesota Alliance of Local History Museums, Red Wing, MN; Diane Lee, Fairfield Museum and History Center, Fairfield, CT

S88 Countering the Optics of Distortion and Doing Public History “In Real Time”

Room: Independence B

How can we expand our repertoires of public engagement by fostering real or virtual spaces for responding to historical controversies in the current political climate? The session’s goal is to provide inspiration for new forms of rapid-response public history, informed by concrete ideas of how to make that possible.

Chair: Nan Kim, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Department of History, Milwaukee, WI
S89 History Relevance for All: New Jersey Historical Commission’s Understanding Communities Project
Room: Freedom F
Working towards audience inclusion can feel overwhelming. In this session, we will share how the New Jersey Historical Commission took a first step to make New Jersey history and history organizations more inclusive for all through an Understanding Communities study focused on the Hispanic and Latino communities in New Jersey.
Chair: Amanda Krantz, Randi Korn & Associates, Stroudsburg, PA; Timothy G. Hart, Ocean County Cultural and Heritage Commission, Toms River, NJ; Niquole Primiani, Department of State, New Jersey Historical Commission, Trenton, NJ; Matthew E. Pisarski, County of Cumberland, Bridgeton, NJ; Nicholas Rodriguez, Passaic County Cultural & Heritage Council, Paterson, NJ; Isha Vyas, Middlesex County Office of Arts and History, New Brunswick, NJ

Saturday, August 31

S90 No Time Like the Present: Engaging Descendant Communities in the Interpretation of Slavery
Room: Salon 3/4
Does your museum confidently discuss slavery? Does your site have meaningful relationships with descendants of enslaved people associated with it? The National Summit on Teaching Slavery presents a rubric of best practices for addressing slavery and engaging descendants that’s grounded in three principles—multi-disciplinary research, positive relationships, and integrated interpretation.
Chair: Shawn Halifax, Charleston County Park and Recreation Commission, Charleston, SC; Christian Cotz, James Madison’s Montpelier, Orange, VA; Brent Leggs, National Trust for Historic Preservation, Washington, DC; Ahmad Ward, Mitchelville Preservation Project, Hilton Head Island, SC

S91 Using the Museum Assessment Program As Your Museum’s GPS on the Road to Excellence
Room: Independence D
Does your museum need budget-friendly directions to improve its community engagement, address challenges with collections, strengthen its educational activities, align operations overall, or hone its governance for greater leadership potential? Hear about the new and revised Museum Assessment Program including the benefits, experiences, and its impact from recent MAP participants.
Chair: Danyelle Rickard, American Alliance of Museums, Arlington, VA; Amanda Shores Davis, Star Spangled Banner Flag House and 1812 Museum, Baltimore, MD; Kisha Wilson-Sogunro, Manassas Museum System, Manassas, VA

S92 We Can Do It—Collaboratively!
Room: Independence C
Collaboration is key, but not always easy. How can large urban museums and small local presenters work together to grow collaborative networks that transcend differences of scale, budget, and territory to broaden opportunities for regional audiences? Learn strategies to overcome roadblocks and capitalize on new opportunities to build effective partnerships.
Chair: Leslie A. Przybylek, Senator John Heinz History Center, Pittsburgh, PA; Jared Frederick, Blair County Historical Society, Altoona, PA; Erin Rothenbueeler, Ohio County Public Library, Wheeling, WV; Robert Stakeley, Senator John Heinz History Center, Pittsburgh, PA

S93 We Cannot Afford to Wait!: Saving Public School History, Material Culture, and Stories
Room: Salon 5/6
Join museum practitioners, preservationists, scholars, and a conceptual artist for a conversation about rapid response versus strategic collecting from multiple closed public schools across different cities. Gain unique insight around swift preservation methods, memory, and developing creative models to advance narratives around preserving and interpreting potential lost histories.
Chair: Kimberly E. Springle, Charles Sumner School Museum and Archives, Washington, DC; Dr. Marion Bolden, Newark Public Schools Historical Preservation Committee, Newark, NJ; Claudia B. Ocello, Museum Partners Consulting, LLC, Maplewood, NJ; Pepon Osorio, Temple University, Tyler School of Art, Philadelphia, PA; Dr. Charles Tocci, Loyola University, Chicago, IL

S94 Why Wait for Feedback? Approaches to Testing Ideas and Getting Immediate Audience Input
Room: Freedom H
What if we didn’t wait to bring in real visitors to test ideas for exhibitions and programming? Three history institutions ran different types of prototyping processes to get visitor feedback during project planning. They’ll share promises and pitfalls of their varying approaches, and ask for your stories and suggestions.
Chair: David McKenzie, Ford’s Theatre Society, Washington, DC; Christopher Graham, American Civil War Museum, Richmond, VA; Kate Haley Goldman, Haley Goldman Consulting, Silver Spring, MD; Sean Kelley, Eastern State Penitentiary Historic Site, Philadelphia, PA

WORKSHOPS

1–5:30 pm
Cost: $45; Preregistration Required

W13 Becoming U.S.—Creative Ways to Inspire Conversation about Contemporary Issues
Location: Free Library of Philadelphia
Talk, eat, and be inspired! Participate in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania’s community conversation program “Becoming U.S.—Food and Culture” to think about how finding unusual collaborators and reaching out to diverse communities allows history to become relevant. Held in the Culinary Literacy Center of the Free Library.
Chair: Beth Twiss Houting, Historical Society of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, PA; Dr. Faye Allard-Glass, Community College of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA; Sholeh Arezoumand, Free Library of Philadelphia, Philadelphia, PA; Ange Brana, Sate Kampar, Philadelphia, PA; Chris Paul, Everything We Eat LLC, Philadelphia, PA

W14 Beyond the Text: Enlivening Documents through Storytelling
Location: National Constitution Center
How do we interpret complex historical texts? Visit the National Constitution Center and learn engaging storytelling techniques that make documents accessible and relevant to visitors. While focusing on the Civil War and Reconstruction, tour a new exhibit, see a live performance, and create your own document-based theatrical experience.

AWARDS OF DISTINCTION
AASLH’s Award of Distinction is given infrequently in recognition of long and very distinguished individual service in history. Recipients of AASLH’s highest award are noted for their contributions to the field of state and local history including their service and volunteerism to AASLH and are recognized nationally as leaders who move the field toward the future.

Sandra Sageser Clark is the Director of the Michigan History Center, a position she has held for the past twenty-eight years. Her professional service has included the AASLH board, the Michigan Museums Association board, the Association of Midwest Museums board, and the Automobile National Heritage Area board. She was the 2009 recipient of the Michigan Historic Preservation Network Leadership Award and the 2017 recipient of the President’s Award from the Michigan Museums Association. Currently Sandra is a member of the Fishtown Preservation Society Board of Directors and the Land Information Access Association Board of Directors. As one nominator wrote, “She believes that history is important and wants all citizens to experience the thrill of discovery, the intrigue, the understanding it brings to its students.”

John and Anita Durel founded Durel Consulting Partners in 1997. They have served the museum community with professionalism, integrity, and an unbridled passion for building great organizations and helping those in the field become great leaders. John Durel’s work in museums included time as the Director of Education and Assistant Director at Strawberry Banke Museum, as Assistant Director at the B&O Railroad Museum, and as Assistant Director and Director at the Baltimore City of Life Museums. Concurrently, Anita Durel built a career in fundraising and development, including leadership positions at institutions including Johns Hopkins University and the Association of Fundraising Professionals. Since forming Durel Consulting Partners, they have assisted numerous museums and CEOs of history organizations, made presentations, and published articles to inform the museum community. They also taught museum studies at Goucher College and Johns Hopkins University. Additionally, John served as the Executive Director of the Seminar for Historical Administration, now the AASLH History Leadership Institute, and both were founding leaders in the History Relevance Campaign.
